1.2.121

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, September 9, 2004 b, 6:50 p.m.

www.unc.bz

1. I am on My way, you are on My way, I am on your way, you are on My way and we are one way together. And one way is My way, My highway, My roadway.
2. My excavation comes now to dig out those who have been buried deep in Me, deep in Me and shadows been [in], forlorn, many who I now excavate to be front center, watch Me. I love you as I come and I call and I excavate. I change things around. I love it as I values change in many to reflect My presence, My body, My valuables who have been so forlorn, so unvalued and so in shadows been. I love you and I give you Me.
3. Gleefully I give you Me, gleefully I lift My people now. I love you and I bless you.
4. I give you praise for what you have done for Me and I enjoy the residence I have placed you in, residence of only Me. I thank you. Residence of My making, My hand making. Thank you. Enjoy it for Me. I love you. I love My residences now in whom I live so freely and romp and play more fully, Me, My Me coming forth more recognized and giving rapacious, raucous, romping ability to rove My heavenlies. I love you.
5. I give you this day as rovers you make—rovers into Me, roving and coming into Me to excavate Me to lift those excavated. I love you.
6. Think it not strange, My words, My grammar, My diction, My vocabulary, My Me that comes through you, your preferences, your likes, your desires, your vocabulary and Mine coming through, I always do. I loved you.
7. I love you and I connect you now, sinew of only Me. Blessings and power upon you now, authority of only Me. It comes, it's there, it is, I Am. All there, Ted, you are right, it is all there. No lack, provision of only Me, from Me, through Me, through My body to My body, to My Mine in Me. I love you. Evening enjoy. Good evening.